Members line up to get shot for flu vaccination

SSgt. Kevin Fuhrman
NCOIC, immunization clinic

It's that time of year again for all active-duty members to receive the mandatory influenza vaccine. The flu shot campaign is a preventive medicine effort aimed at reducing the impact an influenza outbreak would have on mission accomplishment. Influenza is an important medical readiness consideration because of the speed with which epidemics evolve, the large number of debilitating cases, and the serious complications that may arise from the flu, such as viral and bacterial pneumonia. The flu shot is required annually because the viruses that cause influenza change constantly. Each year's vaccine is designed to protect against the types of flu virus expected to be most active that year.

All active-duty members are required to begin or complete the Hepatitis A vaccine series. The Hepatitis A series consists of two shots given six to twelve months apart. Initially, the Hepatitis A vaccine was only administered to individuals on mobility status; however, it is now mandatory for all active-duty members. Because of the mobile nature of the military, members are subject to world-wide deployment and the Hepatitis A virus is a prevalent threat in most of the world. It is most commonly transmitted through contaminated food and water and adversely affects the liver, often leading to liver cancer.

Data will also be collected from shot records of all active-duty personnel on past immunizations for entry into a base-wide immunizations database. This is a natural follow-on to the military's increasing emphasis on preventive

Base recognizes wing quarterly award winners

The 65th Air Base Wing held a quarterly awards ceremony Tuesday afternoon at the Top of the Rock Club. The newly formatted ceremony included lunch and according to Col. Rod Gibson, 65th ABW Commander, was an excellent way to recognize those individuals who received the honor of being nominated and being selected as the wing's best. The winners were:

Full Time Paid Volunteer - SrA. Shane Griego, 65th Operations Support Squadron.

Non or Partial Paid Volunteer - Dawn Wehman.

Portuguese Civilian - Category 1 - Fernando Ferreira, 65th Supply Squadron.

Portuguese Civilian - Category 2 - Dwight Alves, 65th SUPS.

U.S. Civilian - Category 1 - Bonnie Wheeler, 65th Services Division.

U.S. Civilian - Category 2 - Alfonzo Southerland, 65th SVD.

Information Manager, Enlisted Technician - SSgt. Lisle Holland, 65th Air Base Wing.

Information Manager, Enlisted Apprentice - SrA. Tina Huber, 65th Transportation Squadron.

Honor Guard Member - SSgt. Robert Patt, 65th Communications Squadron.

Airman - SrA. Shane Griego, 65th OSS.

Noncommissioned Officer - SSgt. Timothy Knickerbocker, 65th Security Forces Squadron.

Senior NCO - MSgt. Mark Martin, 65th CS.

Company Grade Officer - Capt. Robert Mazany, 65th OSS.

Winners received a wing plaque and certificate as well as coupons from the Army and Air Force Exchange Service and the 65th Services Division. The Airman, NCO and Sr. NCO winners also received a $25 check from the Lajes First Sergeant's Group; a $25 check from the Air Force Sergeant's Association; a $25 check from the Lajes Top Three along with a certificate; and one year free membership, courtesy of the Noncommissioned Officer Association.

Goal day

After going 30 days with four or fewer unsecure buildings, the base has earned a goal day which will be taken Nov. 10. Both U.S. and Portuguese civilians will be allowed liberal leave.

The same metric will be used for the next goal day - which will take place if the base goes to Nov. 25 with the required number or less of unsecure buildings.

NOV. 10

TOPS IN BLUE

Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the South Portuguese Hangar - near the fire station. The event is free and open to anyone with base privileges. Tops in Blue features SSgt. Aaron Miles, 65th Medical Group.

Operation Warmheart

Annual drive helps during holidays

Commentary
SMSgt. Franklin Smith
65th Logistics Group First Sergeant

The Team Lajes First Sergeant's Council is getting ready for the holiday season and Operation Warmheart.

Our mission is to make sure everyone has the means to have an enjoyable holiday season. Last year, the base community pulled together more than $6,000 for individuals and families who needed assistance during the season. Recipients were selected by supervisors and first sergeants.

The base first sergeant's council is familiar with the hardships that can accompany a tour at Lajes. Some families move here accustomed to having two incomes and they must adjust to meet their financial commitments with one salary. Our people may shoulder many out of pocket expenses and each first sergeant has had their heart strings pulled and felt the frustration of their troops' hardships which makes Operation Warmheart a unified effort within the council.

In the past, food and other goods were collected and distributed in the name of Operation Warmheart, but it was difficult to deliver the food discreetly. This year, the donations will again be distributed in post boxes with strict confidentiality. A recipient will receive a greetings card from Team Lajes with a check enclosed and this will be done by Dec. 22.

The first sergeant's council will be selling hot dogs at the main exchange Nov. 28 and will hold a bake sale at the commissary Nov. 29 to raise money for Operation Warmheart. Donations can be made to any first sergeant or by making a check out to the Lajes First Sergeant's Council and mailing it to:

Kids are it with Teen Action Group

SSgt. Rosaire Bushey
Editor

No matter where in the world, there has always been an age-old lament in the teenage community - there's nothing to do. Being on a remote island, however, this particular teen hardship can have a certain truth. To combat this, the youth center, in conjunction with other base agencies such as the chapel, family support and community centers, are trying to find out what teens want, and fulfill those needs.

"There are many opportunities for teens provided by a variety of base agencies," said Rickie Crum, teen coordinator for the base. "One of the problems in the past, however, has been that many of those events overlapped each other. We're trying to work together to put an end to that."

Crum said that the agencies that provide teen programs are scheduling and working programs so that all teens can attend - thereby creating a 'family' approach to teen events.

"What we had seen before was that some teens went to one event and other teens went to different events. By deconflicting these schedules, we're hopefully allowing teens to participate in more activities together and instill within the young adult community a sense of family."

One of the ways the base has come through for the teen community is through the morale call program.

"Morale calls are important to everyone on base and teens are no different," Crum said. "Many have friends they've known for years who have left and they want to keep in touch with them."

To that end the Department of Defense Dependents Schools, the family support center and the 65th Communications Squadron implemented a teen morale call program.

The program lets teens earn one morale call for sustained superior performance in school or through volunteering 25 hours of time serving the base community. The program is open to teens in the 7th through 12th grades.

"This is a great program for the teens of Lajes because by volunteering and earning a 3.0 grade point average or better, they can actually receive two morale calls," Crum said.

The high school sends a list of students who earned a high enough GPA to the communications squadron. This list contains the student's name, sponsor's name, box number, phone number and GPA. With that list, operators can grant the morale call.

Teens who wish to volunteer, can register with the family support center's volunteer office. Office's or workcenters where teens are volunteering must track the number of hours worked and turn sheets into the FSC every month.

The FSC coordinator will send a list of those who have met the criteria to the communications squadron every month.

Another inter-agency development is the LYP Teen Membership card available at the youth center.

According to Crum, the card is given to teens with their $2 membership fee to the LYP. On the punch-type card are 10 items teens can receive for free from around base to include movies at the theater, lunch, pizza and bowling. New cards can be purchased at the youth center for an additional $2 each.

"I think what we're seeing with what's happening at the youth center is a team effort across the whole base," said Col. Segundo Pereira, 65th Support Group Commander. "The youth programs folks and the 65th Services Division in general have gone out and enlisted the support of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service and other units on base to create an atmosphere that enables our young folks to get out and help themselves," he said.

"This is a great partnership, not just for the benefit of the youth involved, but for everyone who is in any way associated with it. The program shows that we are more than the sum of our parts and by our continued dedication to our neighbors, we make Lajes a better place to work and live for everyone."

Teens interested in learning more about the teen action group and how to become involved in it, or learning more about what the teen center has to offer, can call the youth center at Ext. 23273.

Like most about Lajes - How relaxed the Azorean community is. Spending time in the local area is like being on a vacation.

Secretary Widnall thanks Air Force men, women for 'fantastic tour'

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The following is a farewell message from Secretary of the Air Force Sheila Widnall:

To the Men and Women of the United States Air Force:

Now that my tour of duty is up and I prepare to transition back to academic life, I want to tell each one of you what a fantastic tour I have had as your secretary.

Today as you read this, I want to be clear in my message - the Air Force's enlisted and officer corps and the civilian workforce have made the last four years the most rewarding of my professional life.

As a youngster, I dreamed of being a part of the aviation world. As most of you are aware, my dreams became a reality at MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology). However, as a child I had no idea as I watched B-29s fly over my house in Washington state that I would someday be the secretary of the mighty force those B-29 crews belonged to - the United States Air Force.

Millions of men and women have served in "Air Force Blue" since that time. Through it all, the one human quality that stands out both yesterday and today in all of you is that quality we call commitment: commitment to the Air Force team, commitment to our core values,

Secretary of the Air Force Sheila E. Widnall makes a final inspection of the troops. The formation of the Air Force Band and the Air Force Honor Guard gathered during a ceremony and tribute to Widnall on the Field of Honor at Bolling Air Force Base, D.C., Oct. 24. Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Michael E. Ryan, and Secretary of Defense, William S. Cohen, presided over the ceremony and tribute to Widnall, and her husband, Dr. Bill Widnall, as they complete their service and return to academia at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In a final tribute, a flyover honoring Widnall's service was led by four F-15 Eagles from Langley AFB, Va., followed by a B-1B Lancer from Dyess AFB, Texas, a C-17 Globemaster III from Charleston AFB, S.C., and from Travis AFB, Calif, a KC-10 Extender.

Presentation of shot records is mandatory to receive immunizations. There are no exceptions. If a record has been lost, the individual must contact the immunization clinic and arrange to have a new shot record made prior to receiving their flu shot.

American civilians may receive the flu shot on a voluntary basis at the same locations and times as active-duty members. Military members unavailable at the designated times must report to the immunization clinic upon return to duty. Beginning Nov. 17 flu vaccine will be available to family members and eligible retirees until supplies are exhausted.

For more information, call the immunization clinic at Ext. 23584.

commitment to the mission. Commitment of people in its many forms has allowed the Air Force to exist and flourish as the world's pre-eminent air and space force.

In my travels I have witnessed this commitment. Whether in the desert, at Aviano (Air Base, Italy), Kunsan (AB, Korea), or Minot (Air Force Base, N.D.) — I have seen it. It is at the Air Force Academy and Basic Military Training. It is on the flightline at Travis (AFB, Calif.) and the Space Warfare Center at Falcon (Air Station, Colo.). Most recently I saw it in the faces and actions of the Thunderbirds' crew chiefs and life support technicians as they prepared me for my "finis flight" at Edwards (AFB, Calif.) earlier this month.

Many reasons for this commitment exist - patriotism, pride, belonging, personal integrity, knowing that what you are doing makes a difference - these are just a few. Whatever the reasons, I thank heaven they exist - for the sake of the Air Force and our nation.

I am also well aware that the contemporary military missions that we are carrying out in the national interest have been very stressing. With the highest taskings seen during peacetime, I have asked you to conduct and support operations in Southwest Asia, Bosnia and Africa and you have performed flawlessly.

These contemporary military missions have created many new challenges and I commend you for reaching down deep to pull them off with innovation and style. I firmly believe that while we are putting up with many frustrations and irritants in dealing with these missions, we are writing new chapters in the conduct of Air Force and joint military operations.

While we do not know what the future will bring, we will learn lessons in Southwest Asia, in Bosnia, in Africa and all those other places where we may become involved, that will one day provide the foundation we depend upon to pull the nation out of the fire of a war.

I have had the time of my life flying in formation with all of you. I thank you and your families for your unwavering support. I also thank your families for their commitment and support of you and the Air Force. When I came in as secretary and traveled to bases I heard comments like, "We're glad you came to the Air Force." Now as I leave, I want to tell you that I'm very glad I came to the Air Force and I'm very proud to have been on your team. Continue your climb higher, farther and faster.

Some of my feelings about you, the men and women of our Air Force, are typified by this letter sent by a parent, somewhat tongue in cheek, to the Air Force Recruiting Service:

"Our son gave us nothing but trouble starting at age 13. We didn't think he would graduate from high school. When he announced that he was enlisting in the Air Force, I said to myself, 'If they take him, he'll be home in a month.'"

"They DID take him. But I shook every time the phone rang. Then, one day, we did get a phone call from Lackland (AFB, Texas). He had graduated from boot camp, had a furlough and was coming home for a few days.

"I was stunned when our handsome young airman got off the plane - neatly barbered, perfectly groomed, grinning ear to ear. We still can't get used to all the 'Yes, sirs' and 'No, sirs' around the house. His table manners are flawless.

"His mother and I wanted to let you know that, if this is our son, thank you not only for what you have done, but also for what you have done to him. If there has been a mistake, and this is not really our son, can we keep him anyway?"

This is the way I feel about you. I still can't get used to the "Yes, ma'ams" and the occasional "Yes, sir." But, if there has been a mistake, and you are not really my brothers and sisters, my sons and daughters, can I keep you anyway?

Dr. Bill and I wish you all the best. God bless you all.

Festival of the Arts - something for everyone

Ginny Gaffney
Publicity chairperson

The 16th Annual Festival of the Arts will take place Nov. 8 at the community center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The festival combines a host of American and Portuguese crafts in one place allowing everyone an opportunity to get a jump on holiday gift buying.

This year, more than 60 artisans and craftspeople will be on hand selling items to include baskets, linens, pottery, crafts, wood products and much more.

The officers wives club country kitchen will also be open with a large selection of home-made baked goods for purchase whole, or by the piece.

People are reminded, when purchasing items at the festival, to sign the vendor's sales sheet. This signature ensures a portion of the money raised helps the OWC continue to contribute to a variety of on- and off-base charitable activities.

According to Valerie Mazany, the clubs charitable fund treasurer, this year the OWC will donate more than $9,000 to local and base organizations. These donations include two $1,000 scholarships for Lajes high school seniors, several parties throughout the year at local orphanages and contributions to agencies including: the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Helping Our Own Troops, the youth program telethon, Operation Warmheart, volunteer programs, Friends of the Center and the elementary and high schools.

Mazany said that aside from a share of Thrift Shop profits, the Festival of the Arts is the group's only fund-raising event of the year.

People are also reminded that because of safety regulations, strollers will not be permitted in the festival area.

Anyone interested in volunteering to set up or tear down for the festival should call Ext. 28450.

Domestic Abuse Prevention Month

'I didn't really mean to hurt you'

SSgt. Steven Moody
Family advocacy

"You know I didn't really mean to hurt you. It's just that I had been drinking and..."

This is a scenario played out all too often. Having worked in the substance abuse control career field for more than 10 years, I have heard a lot of stories. A true example of this was, "I used the minimum force necessary to get the checkbook from her" which ended up with a woman having two black eyes and bruised ribs because she tried to stop her already intoxicated husband from getting more alcohol.

Another situation was, "Yeah, I hit him, but the alcohol had nothing to do with it," was the reaction I got from a man who had a .23 (legal intoxication limit is .10, except if you are driving at Lajes, then it's .05), blood alcohol content at the time of the incident.

More than 75 percent of all domestic violence involves alcohol. That's including child abuse, spousal abuse and sexual abuse. Think about what effect alcohol has on a person physiologically. The first thing alcohol attacks is inhibitions. Why do you think it's easier to talk with a new person, (especially in a social setting), after you have had a drink or two. It's a big risk to talk with someone you don't know.

Well, alcohol has the same effect on a person who may be inclined to do something violent. The more alcohol one consumes, the lower one's inhibitions are. It's simple math.

Alcohol also provides people with an "excuse" for their behavior. "I wouldn't have hit her, but she knows not to nag me when I'm drinking"

If you find yourself or someone you know in a potentially abusive situation there is help available. Contact family advocacy or substance abuse control at Ext. 25177 if you have any questions or need help concerning family violence or alcohol abuse.

What is the history of Christopher Columbus in the Azores?

After Columbus and his crew had finally found what they believed to be India, but in reality were some islands in the Caribbean Sea, the Niña with Columbus in command and the Pinta began their homeward voyage in January 1493. While sailing in the Atlantic, the two ships were forced to split up due to a storm which drove the Niña and Columbus to the Azorean island of Santa Maria, where they supposedly arrived Feb. 15, 1493, while the Pinta found its way to Spain.

Some chroniclers say that Columbus stopped on the island of Santa Maria in order to fulfill a vow he had made on the high sea during the storm, that he and his crew would hear Mass on the first land they should reach where there was a church. In fact there's a small chapel located in the village of Anjos, on the Northeast side of the island, where one says that Columbus and his men heard Mass.

According to the Christopher Columbus encyclopedia, a small group of Columbus' men were attending Mass when they were taken prisoner by the villagers acting under the island's governor orders. Still according to the encyclopedia, there were some attempts to capture Columbus, who supposedly sailed around

Know the duty laws before sending gifts

SSgt. Kenneth Sowell
Lajes Customs Office

United States law imposes a tax on foreign imported goods called duty.

For U.S. personnel overseas, that means gifts sent to the States this Christmas may be subject to this tax. American-made items are duty-free if they were not altered abroad in a way that increased their value.

Foreign-made gifts are allowed duty-free entry if their retail value is under $100 and the recipient does not receive over $100 worth of foreign gifts in one day. If such a gift is over $100, the entire amount is subject to duty and a customs processing fee.

"Many people think gifts bought in military exchanges can go to the States duty-free," said Norman Kaucher, customs program manager at the European Command, "but this is not necessarily true. The items have to be American-made to gain duty-free entry."

One break for people overseas is that they can send personal belongings home duty-free if they have official change of station orders. "Just put a copy of your orders in an envelope, stick it to the parcel and write clearly on the outside 'Returned personal effects - orders enclosed,'" Kaucher added.

The "international mail imports" pamphlet available at the military customs office in Bldg. T-408, has more information on mailing gifts stateside.

Additional customs information can be accessed on the internet at <http://www.lajes.af.mil/trans/tmo/customs.htm>.

the islands of São Miguel and Santa Maria for five days awaiting the release of his men. The island's governor finally decided to release the rest of Niña's crew admitting he had failed to capture Columbus.

Niña was then able to set sail again, where it ran into another storm a few days later carrying it to the mouth of the Tagus river in Lisbon, before finally reaching the Spanish soil.

Events

Praia city hall sponsors an international music festival in Praia Theatre, through Saturday.

Featured are singers and groups from Spain, Scotland, Bulgaria, Azerbaijan and Sweden. The shows start at 10:30 p.m. Tickets are 5,000 escudos for two days and 3,000 escudos for one and can be purchased at the door or at the music shop "Bibelot" on main street Praia.

Recycling program begins in housing

Capt. Carolyn Langley
65th Civil Engineer Squadron

After much work by a variety of agencies to get a recycling program started at Lajes, the 65th Civil Engineer Squadron Environmental Flight has the program up and running.

October 21 marked the official beginning of the program and people who live in base housing areas can stop by and pick up a recycling bin at the housing office in Bldg. T-408, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The contract for on-base recycling calls for items to be picked up on Tuesdays and Thursdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The recycling contract will allow for the following items to be collected for recycling:

- Aluminum cans
- Paper - office, computer, newspaper, corrugated and non-corrugated cardboard (flattened), glossy magazine and catalogs and bagged, shredded paper.

To get recyclables ready for collection people should separate their items by type and place them in white garbage bags.

Clear bags should be used after they arrive at the commissary. Place the bags in the recycling bins and put the bins inside housing trash sheds or on the front porch for people in Upper T. For more information, or to register a complaint with the program, call Ext. 23143.

Air Force members rally to help earthquake victims

SSgt. Dan Neely
31st Fighter Wing Public Affairs

ASSISI, Italy (AFNS) — U.S. Air Force civil engineers from Aviano Air Base and Camp Darby, Italy, are deployed to central Italy to assist with local disaster relief efforts following the Sept. 26 earthquake which struck the region here.

More than 30 members of the 31st Civil Engineer Squadron and 31st Red Horse flight arrived with heavy equipment Oct. 17 and established a five-tent area which is serving as base camp for ongoing operations.

The team is working four sites within a five-mile radius of base camp. Using everything from bulldozers to earth movers, the civil engineers are clearing and grading land areas, and trucking in gravel to pave the way for Italian crews to set up temporary, prefabricated shelters for the nearly 4,000 displaced residents.

"We're glad to be able to help our host neighbors recover from this devastating earthquake," said Capt. George Petty, chief of the 31st CES disaster preparedness flight.

"We came to use our expertise to help the people of this area recover from this disaster in any way possible," Petty said. "The Italian authorities have done a great job helping us get oriented to the task at hand."

Assisi was struck by what Italian geological officials consider the region's most destructive earthquake in more than 80 years. The disaster claimed 12 lives and injured hundreds of residents. Many of the ancient churches of the town were severely damaged, including the world famous Basilica of St. Francis of Assisi. The basilica's treasured 14th century frescoes were damaged during the earthquake and four people were killed inside when sections of the ceiling crashed down on them.

City officials from Assisi and three smaller, neighboring villages - Capodacqua, Santa Maria Angeli and Palazzo - asked the civil engineers to help them in a two-phase recovery effort. For the engineers, the deployment affords a unique opportunity on two fronts.

"In addition to being able to assist the people of Assisi, we at CE have an annual training requirement to meet, so this is a good opportunity for us," said Petty.

"Our advance team met with the mayor of Assisi," Petty said. "We told him what we had to offer, and he welcomed us with open arms and offered us several sites to work on."

A bulldozer removes rubble from areas in central Italy hit by an earthquake earlier this month.

"It's a perfect opportunity for our guys to actually come out here and get some stick time," said SMSgt. Samuel Ortiz, 31st CES infrastructure superintendent. "Back at the base they don't get to do this kind of work."

The humanitarian project's first phase calls for clearing and leveling large land areas and trucking-in numerous tons of gravel, essentially laying the foundation for Italian contractors to set up nearly 200 pre-fabricated, temporary homes. While the Air Force is providing the manpower and equipment the hosts will supply the structures and utility hardware.

Petty said the CE labors will save the Italians about 30 percent of the total project cost. In phase two, a second Aviano CE team will deploy here to connect utilities to the units. Each of the single-family units will have two bedrooms, one bathroom, a kitchen and den.

So far, local residents are reacting enthusiastically to the American military presence. Dozens have personally delivered offerings of food and beverages to the visiting engineers. Still others have offered their own nearby property as dirt dumping sites, gestures that will save time and transportation expenses on much longer round trips.

Since the initial groundbreaking, small crowds of curious onlookers have continued to line the perimeter. For most, the occasion is their first opportunity to see American troops perform a mission in this region, nearly seven hours drive time southwest of Aviano.

"This is a great experience for everybody," said SSgt. Ricky Lucas, a 31st CES heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems technician.

"We get a lot of training out of it," Lucas said, "but the important thing is that people in the area who need help will get help - that's what we're here to do." (Courtesy of USAFE News Service)

Fact sheet gives airmen more benefit information

RANDOLPH AIR FORCE BASE, Texas (AFNS) — Retirement pay, education assistance, and a generous vacation program are among the benefits all enlisted members receive, but senior service leaders want to ensure the force knows and understands all of its benefits.

The Air Force Personnel Center is helping get the word out on the service's benefits package through a fact sheet that supervisors will provide to their troops during performance feedback sessions - which are held at least semiannually.

"While we think everyone should be knowledgeable about the programs that affect them professionally, personally and financially, we're concerned some of the more junior members may be unaware of where to go for information about their benefits," said MSgt. Rene Alvarez of AFPC's skills management branch. "Adding the fact sheet to the performance feedback session for first- and second-term airmen ensures they'll at least receive an overview of their benefits."

The Air Force Benefits Fact Sheet, available on the center's world wide web site under the "New" heading, explains the retirement system for military members who entered military service on or after Aug. 1, 1986; leave accumulation; commissioning opportunities; scholarships, the GI Bill; and career broadening.

The handout provides glimpses of support programs such as medical and dental care, military commissaries and base exchanges, plus the tax-free allowances military members receive.

"These are things that many of us have taken for granted," Alvarez said. "However, the younger folks may not fully comprehend the value of these benefits. When they're making career choices and essentially choices that may affect the rest of their lives, we feel obligated to ensure they're making well-informed decisions."

To view the fact sheet on-line, visit the Air Force Personnel Center's web site at <http://www.afpc.af.mil>. (Courtesy of AFPC News Service)

Security forces host shooting match

TSgt. Michael Starks
NCOIC, combat arms

The 65th Security Forces Squadron will host its annual Excellence-in-Competition pistol and rifle matches Thursday and Nov. 7 for the rifle and pistol respectively. Both matches will be held at the firing range on Monte Brazil in Angra.

All active-duty military, Guard and Reserve members are invited to compete in the matches. Weapons and ammunition will be provided by the 65th SFS.

The Excellence-in-Competition matches are a part of the Air Force shooting program and is designed to encourage people to remain proficient with weapons while also offering an opportunity to earn an EIC medal. The medal is authorized for wear with service and service dress uniforms.

The pistol match consists of a 30-round course. To be awarded the medal a minimum score of 270 out of a possible 300 points must be obtained and shooters must be in the top 10 percent of all participants to be awarded the medal. Firing is done at a 25-yard distance in a standing position.

The rifle course is 50 rounds and a minimum score of 455 out of 500 points as well as being in the top 10 percent is necessary for the medal. All shots are taken at 25 yards from four different positions.

All competitors are required to attend mandatory safety briefings but there are no special classes held prior to the matches.

To sign up, call Ext. 25280 or 26151.

Undefeated OSS gets upset by winless JAMS

Monday night, in both the National Football League and the base intramural flag football world, was a night of upsets. In the NFL the winless Chicago Bears walked into Pro Player Stadium in Miami and defeated the Miami Dolphins in overtime.

At the SP Field, undefeated Operations Support Squadron took the field against the JAMS team - which, that night, had only eight players. The two teams had met twice before Monday night - once in the preseason where OSS shut out JAMS, and once early in the intramural season where the results were only slightly better.

Led by tandem quarterbacks Guido Leguizamon and Virgil Simpson, the team made it to the half with no scores allowed despite an early interception.

JAMS, playing iron-man football for the entire 40 minutes, scored late in the second half to tie the game at 6. JAMS had their first possession of the first half intercepted and run back for a touchdown.

In overtime, JAMS got the ball first and scored on four downs with a pass from Leguizamon to Matthew O'Neal. The OSS team was denied at the five-yard line on their four-downs in the overtime period. The final score was 12-6.

Courtesy - Lajes First Sergeant's Council

Rings really make your hands look good don't they? Remember, when in uniform (and safety regulations permitting), no more than three rings can be worn. A wedding band and engagement ring connected together count as one, otherwise they count as two. Be safe, be happy and above all, be in standards. You represent us all.
